CORRECT TOP COAT MODELS PRACTICALLY HAND TAILORED

Which really means as near hand made as it is possible to obtain ready-to-wear. These Covert Top Coats are just this near hand tailored. The collar, lapels and button-holes are hand done & the shoulders hand put in, and outside of these parts, there's little hand work really necessary in building a

GARMENT UNLESS BEING BUILT TO ORDER.

The coverts we here refer to, are in three grades, and the shades are light and medium, tan or olive. Priced $20, $25, and $30. The $30 coat we can praise without any fear of overdoing it. Being of very fine covert, full silk lined, best grade of trimmings all through and made in manner described above. We think it merits flattery.

At $25 this covert certainly outshines the majority of similar priced ones, a darker shade than the $30 one, but good quality and all silk lined, principally hand built & fits without a flaw—you'll say so.

If $20 is what you want to spend for a top coat, spend it for one of these. All wool tan covert, well tailored, same model as the better ones, serge lined, silk sleeve lining; you judge the fit. You can get the same thing in ladies for $20.

School opened at the Graded Free School Monday, with J. H. Ekers as principal and R. W. Porter as assistant. The attendance was good, considering that we have two free schools in town. Prof. Ekers is from Louisa and comes here highly recommended as an instructor. Prof. Porter is from this city and is known as one of the best teachers in the county.—Inez Press.

Sergeant, Ky., October 18 In a battle between United States Marshals headed by Arch Meadows, and a party of moonshiners on the Dickenson county Virginia, border late last night John Pinson a young moonshiner was and an named Mullins, another shiner was mortally wounded. One of the officers' posse was reported slightly wounded, though full particulars have not been learned at this hour. The battle was fought in an out of the way place in the Cumberland Mountains.

While stroking a cat which was lying upon his knees Friday morning Capt. William Bay, the well known river man was bitten on the wrist by the animal most severely, seven of the cat's teeth piercing the skin of the Captain's wrist, several of them going into the flesh as far as the bone says the Ashland Independent. The cat has been in the Bay household over five years and had always before shown a most agreeable disposition. In its actions in biting to him. To make sure of no future harm coming from the bite Capt. Bay had the wound thoroughly cauterized by a physician shortly after he was bitten.

The body of Jeff Banks was found in the mill pond at East Point near Paintsville Sunday afternoon. Banks had been missing since last Tuesday.

Monday a week ago, he left East Point enroute to West Virginia to work. Reaching Catletsburg he commenced drinking and returned to East Point Tuesday well supplied with whiskey. He disappeared the same day and a search was made. Late in the week a hat was found in the pond, and identified as the hat Banks had worn. Thinking his body might be in the pond the floodgate was raised Sunday morning. Sunday evening when the water had receded the body was found, face downward in the mud. It is supposed he fell in the pond at night and was too drunk to save himself. On his person was found a pistol, and a pair of knucks. He was 18 years of age and resided near East Point.

Salyersville Ky. There was a squally time at the Democratic speaking here while the Hon. Edgar Hager occupied the platform.

Hager had an engagement to speak here with th Hon. Hubert Vreeland. Vreeland spoke for an hour when Hager began to speak Jake Patrick, a relative of Hager, and a leading Republican here, asked an occasional question on the race issue. Taylor Prater, another Republican took the whole matter so seriously that he began to interrupt Mr. Hager repeatedly by irrelevant questions. Mr. Hager stood for the interruptions as long as he could and then went after Mr. Prater, declaring that he would see him on the outside after the meeting.

Women began to get out of the courthouse where the meeting was held. Republicans started to draw weapons and so did the Democrats, who missed themselves about Mr.

Mr. Patrick jumped up and denounced any effort to interfere with the meeting as an outrage. He said the Democrats were entitled to a hearing in Salyersville and after that the speaking continued without interruption.

Ashland, Ky., Oct. 16 Frightened by her sister wrapped in a sheet and playing ghost, little Clara Osgood leaped from a second story window at her home, near Reedville on the upper Little Sandy, last night and was instantly killed, her neck being broken by the fall. The girls had argued about ghosts several days before and Clara stoutly maintained that no ghost could scare her and offered to bet her sister a new silk petticoat to that effect.

Waiting until Clara had apparently forgotten about the incident, the sister wrapped a sheet about her and entered Clara's sleeping room late last night, uttering weird moans. Clara suddenly awoke and, rushing to the window in her fright, leaping headlong to the ground below she was instantly killed. The sister, Annie Osgood, is prostrated with grief and is being watched for fear she will take her life.

Morehead, Ky., Oct. 18 Gov. Beckham was given a splendid reception when he arrived here to speak this afternoon. A delegation of prominent men and women, with a brass band met the distinguished Kentuckian at the station. Five hundred school children with patriotic songs and and flying flags also greeted the Governor, and marched with the throng that followed him to the campus of the Morehead Normal school.

He was introduced by Judge B. S. Wilson to the largest crowd that has congregated in the county seat since the Governor spoke here in November 1901. Frequent cheers and shouts of approval greeted the utterances of the Governor, and when he had finished the great mass of people thronged about him for a hearty handshake and a word of good cheer. Senator Newman, candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture, finished the programme with a happy, hearty, humorous speech which put the disgruntled into a happy mood.
